XXV Auction Sale

— OFFICE OF —

Geoffrey Charlton Adams

NUMISMATIST

New York City, U. S. A.

DEAR SIR:

From the Atlantic to the Pacific, nearly every part of the United States has contributed its quota towards the Sale that is contained in this Catalogue, and in general little need be said about it except that it contains something for everybody, no matter what branch of Numismatics they may be interested in. The interest in the collecting of coins and medals has reached such a height that day by day hundreds of students are forsaking other lines of collecting and turning their attention to Numismatics. Several of the most important journals of the country run regular articles and answers to queries regarding coins, and, taken altogether, all the future seems more than bright; and our new magazine, THE COIN CABINET, seems to be doing its small share in the work, for since we last wrote you its circulation has doubled and we hope ere long that by its modest influence and dissemination, the study of Numismatics will reach such a height as it never has before and that then we can point with great satisfaction to the result in quorum magna pars fui.

Very truly yours,

GEOFFREY CHARLTON ADAMS.
